Iraq vows retaliation

Iran tries to bomb Saddam's family home

BAGHDAD, June 3, (Agencies): Iraq vowed "crushing retaliation" after accusing Iran of trying to bomb the family bome of President Saddam Hussein today.

It said an F-4 Phantom plane missed the house near the town of Tikrit, 200 km (125 miles) north of Baghdad, and dropped its bombload nearby.

A government statement said no one was hurt and anti-aircraft fire drove the plane off after the 5:55 am (0155 GMT) raid. It did not say whether Saddam or his family were at home.

Plans

Iraq is planning at least five more offensives shortly to recap-ture enclaves on Iraqi soil still held by Iranian forces, officials and military sources in Baghdad said today.

The Iraqi plans come in the wake of two major victories for Baghdad's troops in the past seven weeks, one on the Faw peninsula in southern Iraq, and the other at Salamchah, east of

The two Iraqi victories caused Iran to shake up its military command structure.

Analysts believed at least some of the Iraqi offensives may come while the Iranians are still in confusion. Saad Bazzaz, a senior Iraqi official who has written a book on Iraq's recapture of Faw in a major offensive April 17 and 18, said Baghdad's plans for more attacks was "no military secret." The Iraqi military announced before their latest offensive at Salamchah May 25 they were planning attacks at six points, "and we reported that in the Iraqi News Agency." Bazzaz said.

Majnoon

He said in addition to Salamchah, the Iraqi forces were planning attacks against Iranian troops in the marshes east of Amara and on the two Majnoon islands, also in the marshes but further south.

The Iraqis were also planning to expel the Iranians from territories they held near the (Iranian) horder town of Mehran, some 100 miles (160 km) east of Baghdad, and from hilltop positions in an enclave near Qasr Shirin, 120 miles (190 km) northeast of Baghdad.

Another offensive is planned at Halabja, the Kurdish town further north which Iranian troops seized March 17, he said.
A Western diplomat in Baghdad said the "big prize" for the Iraqis would be the recapture of the Majnoon islands, man-made structures in the Howeiza marshes sitting on eight billion barrels of proven Iraqi crude oil reserves. The Iranians captured the islands in 1984.

'Cold war barriers being taken down'

LONDON, June 3, (Agencies): Amid mediaeval pageantry, Prime Minister Margaret That-cher gave a majestic send-off today to President Reagan hailing his presidency for restoring faith in the American dream. Reagan's 26-hour stopover in London - probably the last visit here of his term in office -ended amid rhetoric on both sides that underlined the "special relationship" of the two leaders who are good friends and share a conservative philosophy. ## Moscow summit hailed as a success

LONDON, June 3, (Reuter): World leaders generally hailed the Moscow summit as a success, praising President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorhachev for achieving what could realistically have been expected of them.

Commentators said a new era had opened in East-West relations hut some pointed out that although solid progress was made, major tasks still lay ahead on arms control and other issues.

The results of the unprecedented fourth superpower summit which ended in Moscow yesterday were warmly received both in East and West and by the heads of international organisations.

Zamhian President Kenneth Kaunda summed up a widely felt sentiment, paying lavish tribute to Reagan and Gorhachev for their success in achieving a nuclear arms control accord. "It takes two to tango and these two men have tangoed for peace," Kaunda said. During a 24-hour stopover in London oa his way home, Reagan was told by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher that he had ushered in a new era of

But camp commander Col David Tzemach denied the allegations and claimed the 2,483 prisoners at the camp had adequate food and water and the most severe punishment was three days in isolation.

The Ketziot detention on centre, with a capacity of 4,000, was built on an old army base near the Egyptian border to house the huge number of Palestinians detained during mass arrests aimed at crushing the anti-Israel uprising. The prison opened March 18.

Sinhalese group.

COLOMBO, June 3, (AP): Suspected Sinhalese extremists killed two candidates in southern province elections and burned government buildings today, a day after trying unsuccessfully to

One victim belonged to the ruling United National Party and the other to a communist alliance, police in Colombo said. The officer, said he had no further details on the killings.

The officers said at least 75. ases of arson were reported in the Southern Province, which is scheduled to hold elections for local government councils on June 9. The targets were government huildings and electricity and telephone posts, he said.

The violence erupted hours after officials announced results of elections Thursday in the western and ceotral provinces.

At least six people, including two policemen, were killed Wednesday and Thursday as the group, launched a wave of arsoo and bombings in an unsuccessful attempt to disrupt the polling.

They oppose the plan to elect provincial councils, saying it gives too many concessions to Tamils.

The plan is aimed at giving the minority Tamil community, which is dominant in the northern and eastern provinces, more say in local government in an attempt to quell their 5-year-old separatist war.

Four of the country's nice provinces went to the polls April 28 in elections which also were won by the United National Party.

Rajiv raps Pakistan for helping Sikhs

Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi Thursday reportedly conveyed to Pakistan Foreign Secretary Abdus Sattar "serious coocern" over Islamabad's "continued involvement in terrorist activities" in Punjah state.

Sattar met Rajiv before be departed for Islamahad after two days of talks with Indian officials on contentious bilateral and regional issues that contribute to loogstanding frictions between the two neighbouring rivals.

An official spokesman said the 43-year-old Prime Minister raised with Sattar one of the most seriously disputed topics: Charges that Pakistan is harbouring and training Sikh extremists fighting to create in India's border state of Punjah the indepen-dent oatioo of "Khalistan."

Pakistao vigorously denies the allegation. The spokesman, quoted by the Press Trust of India news agency, said Rajiv told Sattar that Pakis tani officials "should take concrete and visible measures which would show their commitment to the priociple of ooo-ioter-

Sattar told reporters before his flight home that he and Indian officials held extensive talks on a range of subjects that "for me, it is always a source of inspiration, great pleasure and satisfaction to be in Delhi.'

But he also said Iodia and Pakistan should increase efforts to normalise relations.

We should deepeo the dialogue to make it more extensive and include positive items which outhalance negative issues," he said.

Before meeting, Rajiv, Sattar and bis delegation held a final round of discussions with Iodian officials led by Foreign Secretary K.P.S. Menon.

"The two delegations had useful talks in a free, frank and cordial atmosphere," said a joint statemeol issued after the talks concluded "The discussions covered a wide range of bilateral issues. In addition, views were also exchanged oo regional matters, including Afghanistan and the current international issues," the statement said. The communique gave no specific details on the topics covered by Saltar and Menoo in their talks.

But experts and oews reports said the subjects included Pakistan's longstanding proposal for a no-war pact and India's counteroffer of a treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation.

Pakistan unveiled more than four years ago it proposed no-war paet with Iodia, its foe in three conflicts since 1948. But India waots a broader agreement that includes trade, tourism and joint ventures.

A Foreign Ministry official said the talks between the twn neighbours were part of ongoing consultations.

Meanwhile, Punjah police said on Thursday that Sikh extremists killed at least 36 people in the Golden Temple complex at Amritsar before last month's police siege at the shrine.

The United News of India quoted unidentified senior police sources as saying police were told of the killings by some of the 200 Sikh radicals and sympathisers who surrendered during the 10day siege, which ended on May

Many of the victims were tortured before they were killed, UNI said. The extremists said the victims were beaten with iroo rods and whips and that salt was rubbed into their wounds. Electric shocks were also used.

Radical change in attitude towards regional issues

A KUWAITI newspaper on Thursday said the outcome of the superpower summit heralded o radical change in the offitude of the United States and the Soviet Union toward regional issues and odvised neighbouring Iran to heed the development.

Al Roi Al Aam said that the keenness of US President Reagan and Soviel leader Mikhail Gorbachev to reach an agreement on limitation of medium-range nuclear weapons "has prompted o radical change in their policies toward many regional questions." "Despite the big contradictions existing between their countries in nearly all spheres, the two leaders managed to reach what can be called a bilateral alliance to retain their influence and domination of a large portion of world potentials," the paper went on in its editorial. "If the agreement on limitation of nuclear orms is considered as heralding a new age with new concepts, it is high time for the Iranian side to discern this fact and take the initiative to deal with the war in o realistic toshion," Al Rai Al Aam wrote.

"The two superpowers have now established o key norm which rules out the existence of onything impossible in the world of detente," the paper added. "Iran should now make positive proposals to end the war."

The spillovers of the war have been menacing the region and its waterway, with a particular threat to Kuwait which is the country closest to the traq-tran warfront.

Regional leaders, including the Amir of Kuwait, who is the current chairman of the 46-nation Organisation of islomic Conference, had been appealing to Reagan and Gorbachev to help settle the Iraq-Iran war as well as the Palestinian problem. Headlines In Al Rai Al Aam on the outcome of the summit were positive, splashing the titles: "the Soviet leader and the American President declore their summit has been a success" and "Reagon: we have agreed an peaceful solutions to all regional conflicts." Other Kuwaiti popers, as well as those in neighbouring Gull Arab countries, differed and did not appear to see any encouraging results on the proposed arms embargo against Iran or the issue of Arab-Israeli peacemaking. "No solutions to regional questions," was the headline in Al-

Qabas, on independent newspaper, while oil Kuwaiti newspapers, Including Al Rai Al Aam, played up the Soviet Union's refusol to go along with the proposal for on orms embargo against Iran.

The state-run newspaper Al Ittihad of Abu Dhabi said "it's regrettable that regional issues were discussed by the two leaders only from the viewpoint of the influence and gain each could gamer" and Bahrain's Akhbar Khaleej sald that the Middle East problem "was-enly-haphazardly raised as part of the regional conflicts over which the two superpowers seek to avert conflict."

Waterfront project a big attraction

THE waterfront project is a gen-uine attraction and a "boon" to citizens and residents alike who seek fresh cool hreezes away from their continual air-conditioned villas and homes.

A typical scene is repeated every summer day. Beginning at around six in the evening, numerous people begin an invasion of the sea front scattering io groups all along the kilometres long seaside. The front is a picture of all nationalities, ages, sexes -- all iovolved in their own particular choice of relaxation - be it fishing, swimming, boating, sports, or "just whiling-away-time" with their children huilding sand-castles. It is also not uncommon to see an entire family enjoying their bar-becued dinner at the froot.

A recent questionnaire revealed that visitors desired that different component sections of the huge and successful project be marked numbered or somehow carry identifications. This was to facilitate them to provide details of locations to their friends or relatives "as a meeting point." Several suggested that sections be named after national figures who illustriously contributed towards their country.

By Lima Al Khalafawi

SALAH Khalaf, a member of the central committee of the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO), speaking at the memorial service of Khalil Al Wazir which was held on Wednesday at the Kuwait Teachers' Union, stressed that US Secretary of State, George Shultz, would not find any Palestinian support for his Middle East peace plan.

Marwan Al Bargotì, a Pales-tinian deportee, also praised Al Wazir's contribution and affirmed the effective role of uprising in gaining the land of Palestine.

Winds of change in Soviet Russia

EVER since the Bolshevik revolution, the free-world has been viewing Soviet Russia through the actions of leaders characterised as spasmodic and mysterious. Continued domination by a succession of typical leaders, resulted in the country being termed "the iron curtain" difficult to penetrate, or have access to, except through adherence to inflexible communist teachings and principles.

Communism, it has been maintained, bas always been a target for religious thinkers, economic peers, champions of human rights and politicians of various denominations. Consequently, till recently, Russia, remained the iron curtain country.

However, since Gorbachev came to power dramatic changes have been evident. Gone are the days of 'unsmiling strait-laced bureaucrats. Instead, Gorbachev displays an easy going, elegant and open manner which is directly reflected amongst polithuro members and elite Soviet politicians. This change of style during the few years he bas been in power is evident in no small measure towards his opening Russia to the outside world hy way of cultural exchanges, high level arms limitations talks, trade and economic agreements and most vital of all an exchange of visits of top-notch Soviet and American scientists. The world has now come to appreciate and accept his policy of glasnost — the policy of openness.

This policy of openness has been more than adequately reflected in the Soviet-American discussions especially in the disarmament agreements which have found favour in Russia and bave been welcomed hy the entire world. The recently concluded agreements have achieved a first step towards ending the arms race in nuclear weapons. From an economic point of view, these agreements would benefit Russia in the sense that funds appropriated for the arms race could now be better utilised towards the country's development. On the other hand, the Western countries including the Nato countries can better accommodate the dishursements of funds on nuclear arms programmes with little negative effects towards the country's development plans.

Indeed, for a country seeped in ideological tradition, Gorbachev must be commended for his success in hringing about the present changes and the policy of glasnost which has earned the respect and admiration of the world at large. Even political decisions no more go through the long hureaucratic procedures of the past. Wheels of action are immediately geared to follow executive orders. This has led to a changed view of Russia by the West and the rest of the world, including a change in the mentality previous years where the West usually described Russia as having a "one-track mind."

The present hierarchy, with Gorbachev at its head, welcomes discussions. This was clearly evident during the various hrain-storming sessions with his US contemporaries. Wherever, there were differences of opinion, Gorbachev always maintained that these differences were not insurmountable — he maintained that solutions existed and would be found given the good-will of the parties concerned.

Gorbachev has truly "invaded" the world of politics with his brand of Soviet diplomacy. It is no secret that be entered the White House without KGB planning.

History is replete with examples of the population waiting for too long to see a leader restoring new life and bringing back past glories to the nations. Indeed, in Gorhachev, the Russians have a dynamic, pragmatic leader of stature, who has been instrumental in erasing the terminology "the iron curtain".

Iraqi feint led to victory on Faw

By Norman Black

WASHINGTON, (AP): The Iraqi Army "set up" Iran in April for one of its worst military defeats with an etaborate. month-long deception campaign of troop movements that demonstrated the growing maturity of Iraq's forces, senior US Defence Department officials say.

Having rapidly recaptured the Faw Peninsula six weeks agn in an operation that succeeded beyond all expectation, the traqis since have reclaimed another piece of their occupied territory near the southern city of Basra with a similar surprise attack, the officials noted.

The victories mean it now is conceivable that Iraq can break the stalemate in the 7 1/2 year war with Iran, the sources continued. While there is no evidence that lraq will try to invade Iran, it appears Iraq now has the ability to "systematically evict" Iranian troops from its territory, the officials said. Such victories, when enupled with the political and economic problems confronting Iran, may be enough to force a truce set-

The sources — ranking defence officials with access to US intelligence data - agreed to discuss developments in the Iran-Iraq war during interviews conducted over the past week. The officials, who spoke only upon condition they not he named, suggested the administration had new reason to hope the Iran-traq war might wind down - allowing the United States to reduce its own commitment of naval forces to the Gulf.

The sources agreed that Iraq had surprised not only Iran hut also US intelligence agencies with the timing of its land offensives. They further disclosed:

• Iraq spent the month before the April 17 attack on the Faw Peninsula moving troops all around the country, generally toward the north. When they were ready. The traqis used their superior roads and military logistical system to send 50,000 to 60,000 troops streaming hack south to Faw in one coordinated

They set up the tranians masterfully," one official said.

"They achieved surprise," a second official added. "In the course of this plan, they moved unitsaround in ways that Iranian intelligence were likely to be deceived, then reassembled these units in a stealthy and rather sudden way, ...

"And they just ran over the Iranians like a steamroller running over a cockroach. It was really something. They had expected it (the operation) to take five days and it took them a day and a half."

The source noted the Iraqi military had been criticised in the press in the past, "hut our conclusion has been that they ve gotten steadily better. We have observed with interest the maturation of the Iraqi armed forces as an entity."

Pressure on Hanoi to withdraw troops

Soviets warming up for settlement in Cambodia

By Clayton Jones

BANGKOK: With the Afghan agreement behind it, the Soviet Union appears to be warming up for a similar settlement for the war in Cambodia.

But that diplomatic warmth may not be enough. It is Vietnam that occupies Cambodia, and Soviet pressure may not be enough to get Hanoi to withdraw its troops anytime soon.

The April 14 Afghan agreement hints at Soviet determination to end the similar but far more complex conflict in Southeast Asia, say Western diplomats.

In mid-March, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Igor Rogachev
talked with both Victimanese and Cambodian leaders in Hanoi. Later, in Bangkok, he told Thai officials that the Afghan pact was a model for Cambodia.

Soviet statements, just after the Afghan deal was inked, drew obvious parallels. Radio Moscow, in a move that appeared to go over the head of Vietnam, broadcast a report into Camhodia (also known as Kampucbea) in the Khmer languagestating: "Let us bope the undoing of the Afghan knot will have a positive impact on settlement of the Kampuchean problem."

Failed

Vietnam's own radio hroadcasts, failed to mention that Soviet troops would be withdrawing. Observers speculate that this reflects Hanoi's concern ahout domestic pressure for a similar withdrawal of Vietnamese soldiers from Cambodia.

parallels: • The Soviet invasion of Afghianistan began the same year (1979) Vietnamese troops occupied Cambodia.

Both conflicts do have strong

Both wars hit a stalemate due to the unexpected strength and foreign support of resistance guerrilla forces. in both resistance camps, divisions are deep, with outside con-cern that radical factions (orthodox Muslims in Afghanistan, communist Khmer Rouge in Cambodia) might take power. Both Hanoi and Moscow maintain about the same troop levels (over 115,000 each) in the anguish back home over the costs of maintaining the conflict. But far greater differences could make a Cambodian settlement more intractable. Western diplomats say.

occupied country, with subdued

Talks

For one, Soviet troops are not directly involved in Cambodia, only Soviet money, a close ally, and Soviet prestige in Asia.

Then, too, China's support for the strongest anti-Vietnamese faction, the notorious Khmer Rouge, would make any potential deal more complex. And in Afghanistan, the United Nations spent six years mediating a solution, while the only talks on Cambodia began last December with no UN belp.

Those talks - two sessions in France between Cambodian Prime Minister Hun Sen and resistance leader, Prince Norodom Sihanouk - were called off by Prince Sibanouk after little progress.

Fighting in Cambodia is far less intense than in Afghanistan.
And observers doubt if any new weapon can be introduced in Cambodia to turn the tide against Vietnam, similar to the impact of introducing anti-aircraft stinger missiles in Afghanis-

Moscow's leverage over Hanoi is limited, says observers, despite the fact that Soviets provide about $2 hillion a year to ep Vietnam's economy float. Soviets officials based in Asia say they hope that hard-liners within Hanoi's communist leadership will be dropped at an expected Communist Party conference this year, giving a freer hand to reformists leader to compromise in a Cambodia settlement.

While Vietnam says it will withdraw by 1990, the Soviets. like many Western observers, express doubts Hanoi will, or even can, pull out.

Vietnam's interest in Cambodia, such as keeping a safe border and preventing a Chinesehacked regime from taking power, weighs heavily against Soviet interest in ending the conflict soon and improving its image in Asia.

Offensive

In 1986, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorhachev launched a diplomatic offensive in Asia. with a eye to breaking the Cambodian stalemate. But that effort (so far seen as largely unsuccessful) has to be balanced against possibly losing access to an important naval hase at Viet-nam's Cam Ranh Bay if Moscow "pulls the rug out" from Vietnam German diplomat.

One indication that Moscow and Hanoi may be coming to loggerheads is a recent flare up of competition for influence in communist Lans, where between 20,000 to 40,000 Vietnamese occupy the country, but the Soviets provide more aid. Adding to this are Vietnamese complaints that Moscowshowed little concern last month when China took over six islands Hanoi claims in the South China

Vietnam's Communist Party leader, Nguyan yan Linh, was expected to visit Moscow, but the trip was cancelled, according to diplomats, due to the death of Vietnam's prime minister. The trip may be re-scheduled soon, setting up the possibility for a Cambodian showdown in Mos-

Robert Kennedy's assassination

'Cover-ups and conspiracies' in investigation

By Aurello Rojas and Russell Snyder

LOS ANGELES, (UPI): An Ambassador Hotel telephone operator, told to urgently summon police on a June night 20 years ago, was stimped when the police dispatcher who answered the phone wanted a description of the emergency.

"We have Mr Kennedy here,"

she ventured.

"Big deal," he said.

"Hold on," she added. "I think somebody was shot."

"Oh, great," the dispatcher responded.

Their exchange, preserved on an audio tape, is among materials gathered by the Los Angeles Police Department in its year-long investigation of the fatal shooting of Robert F. Ken-nedy on June 5, 1968. The files were made public in April after nearly two decades of secrecy.

But the collection, instead of laying to rest questions surrounding Kennedy's death, added fuel to speculation about coverups and conspiracies: Scholars and history buils poring over the records pointed roundstage evidence, investigative oversights and embarrassing lapses by police.

The assassination of the New York senator at first seemed unhurdened by complexities. Sirhan Bishara Sirhan still was firing his . 22-calibre revolver in the botel's crowded pantry when he was seized by angry Kennedy supporters.

Dismissed

Police nevertheless tracked down and dismissed some 25 conspiracy theories, concluding the Palestinian immigrant acted alone in firing eight shots from his $31 Iver-Johnson cadet revolver. Three bullets struck Kennedy and the others wounded five hystanders.

Sirhan, now serving life prison term, did not deny the charge and maintained he acted alone, incensed at Kennedy's sympathy

Researchers were shocked to learn that nearly half the photographs gathered in the case were destroyed, and ceiling tiles and door frames taken as evidence from the hotel pantry are missing from the collection. Police say the photos were duplicates and that other evidence was "routinely destroyed" as valueless.

In addition, Philip Melanson, a sontheastern Massachusetts University political scientist and director of the Robert F. Kennedy assassination archives, said taped interviews with dozens of key witnesses are missing from the collection. Among them are 29 witnesses who Melanson said could supply details "that relate directly or indirectly to questions of conspiracy" to kill Kennedy.

she was pressured by police into recanting her account. "There was a lot of badgering that was going on. I was just 20 years old, and I became unglued," she said. "I said what they wanted me to say: I don't want to have to go through that again, that kind of harassment."

SOVIET HARD-LINER YEGOR LIGACHEY

Gorbachev reforms spark struggle

By Robert Evans

MOSCOW, (Reuter): "I am emotional," declared Kremlin maverick Boris Yeltsin. "I take everything very close to heart, especially when things go wrong." Yeltsin's emotion, voiced anew at the height of the Moscow summit has come as a reminder for Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev of the domestic political. struggle over his reforms.

Gorbachev's nominal number two Yegor Ligachev, said the one-time Moscow city communist chief who still staiks the Kremlin corridors of power, should he removed as an "opponent of change."

As Yeltsin issued his implicit appeal in an interview with the British Broadcasting Corporation, across the Soviet capital Ligachev was attending a Kremlin dinner for President Ronald Reagan - although sitting some distance from the two

At the dinner, Gorbachev told Reagan his programme for the country was "more democracy, more openness, more social justice - areas in which Moscow reformists say Ligachev has strong reserves.

Liberal ·

And seated at a top table with the president and the Kremlin chief was the hurly, beetlebrowed figure of Alexander Yakovlyev, one of the liberal intellectual architects of Gorbachev's perestroika".

Yakovlyev, former ambas-sador to Canada and although 64 one of the latest arrivals on the party's ruling polithuro, has been at Gorbachev's side since Reagan arrived in Moscow on Widely regarded as the prime contender for Ligachev's post as ideological chief and number two, his position has been clearly boosted by his prominence over the past three days.

At a news conference in the Soviet Foreign Ministry on the eve of the summit, leading reformist intellectuals Tatyana Zaslavskaya and Fyodor Burlatsky described Yakovlyev as one tbe "revolutionary democrats" around Gorbachev.

But Moscow analysts said it was unlikely that the Soviet leader would have welcomed the open intervention at this stage of his one-time protege Yeltsin, whose style and tactics he was compelled to condemn publicly last November. As he prepares for a party con-ference opening on June 28, Gorbachev is clearly seeking to retain the support of moderate conscrvatives to ensure his extended reform plans are approved.

The sensitivity of the issue. closely linked to an open battle between reformers and conservatives, was illustrated by the first reaction from a scnior official to the 57-year-old Yeltsin's remarks.

"I do not think it was very correct on his part," Party Central Committee member Georgy Arbatov told a news conference on Teusday. "I have the impression that he was in a somewhat excited state."

Another Central Committee figure, Vadim Zagladin, declined any comment when asked hy journalists at another summit press venue about the significance of Yeltsin's remarks.

Respect

In the interview, the former Siberian factory manager who won a name for tough tactics against old-fashioned party hureaucrats during his two-year tenure in Moscow, suggested Gorbachev should himself adopt a firmer line at the top.

"I consider myself his suppor-ter... I like his activity. I support and respect him," said Yelsin. who received the BBC camera crew in his new office at the State Committee for Construction where he was sent after his removal from the Moscow Party

"I think he could be more decisive in changing the top echelon of the leadership." he

"We have a common goal. He is going there more slowly, planning everything carefully in advance. I would help him gel there quicker." The intervention came as a bitter struggle was underway for control of delegations to the conference at which Gorbachev supporters say he wants a clear mandate for a radical reshaping of the Soviet power structure. Reports from all over the country in the Moscow press and accounts provided by reformist intellectuals suggest conservatives are winning the day in the selection process.

"What Gorbachev needs at this stage is consolidation," said one communist analyst. "What Yeltsin is pushing for is revolu-tion from the left."

gates for such a renewal soon. Challenge

Key players in the party's struggle for rejuvenation who left their mark at the conference include Serbian party leader Slobodan Milosevic, Slovenian party chief Milan Kucan and the Croatian representative in the Yugoslav Party presidency. Stipe Suvar.

Analysts said these three, who have varying emphases and aims and are all controversial for different reasons, are outstanding examples of the new breed or Yugoslav polificians.

"If by this autumn we do not implement a complete social reform, then an extraordinary congress must be called. Either the leadership will fulfil the will of the people or the people will replace it," Milosevic said.

Suvar, 52, said on the eve of the conference that it would be a battlefield between "democratic" and "undemocratic" forces: Suvar's statement have straddled the fence between reform were, predictably, of thanks. "I want to thank Almighty God for love and strength," she said. It came as no surprise to the singer's many millions of fans throughout the world.

Beliefs

Indeed it only publicly affirmed her religious beliefs - that have now reportedly led her to enrol in Bible classes in order to become a Baptist minister in her home town of Newark, New Jersey.

But now her 'goody two-shoes' behaviour has even got her, own record company worried. Arista, the company she is signed to along with her first cousin Dionne Warwick and godmother Aretha Franklin, is said to have recently put pressure on Whitney to get herself a boyfriend.

Despite her good looks and a long list of hopeful suitors which has included ectors Robert de Niro and Michael J. 'You can hear anything on the streets, but if you don't hear it from me - then it's not true.'.' says Robyn.

True to form, Whitney has not allowed her feathers to get too ruffled by the stories claiming she is gay either. "My mother taught me thet when you stand in the truth and someone tells e lie e bout you don't fight it.

"I'm not with any man. I'm not in love. People see Rohyn with me and they draw their own conclusions. Anyway, whose business is it if you're gay

"What others do shouldn't matter. Let people talk. It doesn't matter to me because I know I'm not gay. Besides, I don't care.'

It is interesting that Whitney — e grown woman — should still be referring to her mother's pearls of wisdom, hut then Cissy Houston, e veteran and respected soul and rhythm and blues singer herself, has been one of the major driving forces hehind her daughter's sensational career.

More than that, Whitney has alweys been guided by her rules for life in general. "My family love me and I have had that love since I was born," she says. "That's why I'm bere, because of love. My mother taught me to love myself, and when you can love yourself --- then you can love someone else."

Whitney's mother also saw to it that her child was not allowed to wear make-up until she was 14, or date e boy until she reached 16. And if Cissy thought Whitney needed a spanking - she got one.

It was Cissy who allowed Whitney to sing in public for the first time when she was 12 years old. Up until that point, she had not wanted to push any of her three children into a show husiness career. "I didn't require that my children sing anywhere hut in church, it was her own choice." As with so many soul singers, Whitney learned her singing in church. "After singing there, I finally realised that using my voice was what I was meant to do," she says. "Gospel singing has given me the emotion, power and the strength to do this. People would come up to me and say that the way I sang had changed their whole life. I knew then that if I could excite a congregation in church, then 1 could. excite anyone.

To this day, Whitney contin-ues to visit the Mount Hope Baptist Church in New Jersey, where Cissy is Minister of Music. "I go on Sundays to sing along with the rest of the congregation," she explains.

"I sing for the poor people who cannot pay or get to see my concerts. But, reelly, I've known no other way of spending my Sundays apart from singing in church. I've done it since I was a child so it's very natural for me, and I love it.

"Gospel music runs deep with us. All kinds of music were played at home - hut on a Sunday it was gospel only. These days I'm not religious in the sense of doing nothing else hut worshipping — hut I'm a great believer, I have faith and God still guides me in every-thing I do."

Which is the reason why Whitney prays each night. "I don't necessarily do so for happiness, she says, for for peace of mind. I do it slightly robotically to keep me focussed on what I do and why I do it." The support she gets from her family and from religion are the twin forces that help keep Whitney safely on the rails, she believes. "Everyone always assured me that I had talent, hut often I know that it's really not enough.

"I have a family that loves me, and my closest and dearest just want nice things for me that is the real thing which has helped. But when I'm worried I say to myself 'Whitney, don't fret if you think that God's not eround......there's alweys Mamma. Whitney Houston is that rarest of singing stars — a performer with an appeal that extends across all boundaries — racial, age and musical. She is wholesome, harmless and entertaining, and would really

Ministers to discuss ways to bolster sagging oil prices

VIENNA, June 3, (UPI). The 13 Opec oil ministers meet on June ll with a plateful of problems before them, all keyed on finding ways to bolster sagging world oil Analysts say the regular semiannual meeting of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Conntries — postponed from Tuesday until Saturday — is being convened on a pessimistic note. Opec is dodged by rampant cheating over production quotas, heavy new losses by Iran in the Gulf war and the collapse of an attempt to negotiate production ceilings with six non-Opec countries.

Rallled Oil prices fell as low as $13 a barrel in early March, but rallied to the current $15-16 a barrel average.

Opec set an internal production ceiling of 16.6 million barrels per day for the first half of 1988. But several states — most notably Iraq, which is not a signatory to the agreement — are producing more, and the total output is estimated to exceed 18 million barrels. "The problem is twofold: discipline in Opec and how to maintam it, and how to reach a compromise with non-Opec countries which would be satisfactory to both sides," said one close

Depressina

Opec members, led by Saudi Arabia and other Gulf states, rejected in Aprila proposal by six non-Opec producers under which each side would have reduced exports by five per cent. The issue may be brought up again at the Vienna meeting. which some non-organisation states are expected to attend as observers. The Saudi-led group favours higher production despite its sing effect on prices. A majority of Opec states ted by Venezuela and Iran want to retain or even lower production ceilings to push prices toward Opec's official target level of $18

The authoritative Middle East

Economic Survey last week released a forecast estimating Opec demand at 19 million barrels per day for the second half. The Opec secretariat's estimates are a more conservative 18.4 million barrels. "The most likely outcome is that the current quota ceiling will probably be extended, certainly for the third quarter and probably for the fourth quarter," said Fergus Macleod, an oil analyst for Barclays De Zoete Wedd in London.

"Opec projections are that demand is stronger now. When you've got that, the usual outcome in Opec is a compromise to leave things where they are." Raising quota ceilings would also probably dissolve any hopes of future cooperation with the non-Opec countries, led by Mexico and Colombia Another unknown factor is an offer by Iraq's Oil Minister, Issam Abdul Raheem Al Chalabi, to join in any quota agreement worked out with non-Opec countries. unable to control the Iraqis," said one analyst. Iraq's current output is estimated at 2.4 billion barrels per day while its Opec-set quota is 1.5 billion. Another political problem is "That could mean a lot.

because so far Opec has been the growing isolation of Iran within Opec over the Gulf war and its rupture of relations with Saudi Arabia following the killing of some 400 Iranian religious fanatics at Makkah last July.

"This meeting is going to be against the background of the current Iranian setbacks," said Haus-Heino Kopietz, an analyst at the London-based Institute of Strategic Studies.

Maintain

"We in the West bave put a lot of pressure on eountries to isolate Iran, and given Iraq almost carte blanche for its military offensive. If Iran perceives this as a stand-off situation, it could walk out. That could blow the wbnle market right open," Kopietz said. The ministers also will face a bost of technical issues, including a more precise definition of the type of oil to be included in quotes.

Venezuela has excluded from its daily quota some 200,000 to 300,000 barrels of extra light crude hy terming it "condensate," which is exempt from the quotas.

Meanwhile, the Energy Ministry said Venezuela will maintain its traditional support for curbs on oil output in next week's Opec meeting.

"Our position will be the traditional one - to try to achieve a production ceiling that is in line with real demand for the second semester, and also in line with Opec's objective to reach an average price of $18 per barrel." Energy Minister Arturo Hernan-working since Monday in Vienna to draw up demand estimates for the second baif. Demand nordez Grisanti said, according to a ministry spokeswoman.

He said Opec experts are mally rises in the second half. In the first half, Opec production of between 17.5 and 18 million barrels a day exceeded demand by about 1 to 2 million barrels a day. Hernandez spoke following a meeting with local oil experts on

Depending

The minister said Venezuela probably will reduce its yearlong per barrel earnings estimate following the Vienna meeting, depending on the results of the conference.

The current estimate is $15.20 per barref, after it was reduced in January from $16.70.

"We are analysing if it will be convenient to adjust the estimate to market realities . . . (the new price) will probably be less than 15.20," be said.

Venezuela earned an average of $15 per barrel in March, he said, but since then oil prices have fallen by about a dollar.

In a special Opec meeting last April, Venezuela supported production cuts of around 300,000 barrels a day, hut the proposal was not adopted.

SEOUL, June 3. (AP): South Korea's exports in May rose 16 per cent to $4.67 billion, slumping from an average hike of 32.5 per cent during the first four months of the year, the Irade and foreign ministries said yesterday. The May figure compared to $4.02 billion during the same month in 1987. The slower growth was attributed to recent tabour dispute over wage hikes in auto and other export industries, and also to the appreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar. The won has gone up 8 per cent since January. Imports in May were tallied at $4.23 hilling, up 16.6 pc.: cent from $3.63 billion a year ago. The trade sur lus in Ma; amounted to $435 million, compared with $437 million in April and $395 million in May 1987. The May surplus was the smallest since February. # Oman's banks see profits tumble in slack economy

MUSCAT, June 3, (Reuter): "Debt collectors - immediate vacancies."

The small advert in Oman's English language daily, taken out by a merchant trading company, sums up the problems facing Oman's nine local and 13 foreign banks as they light to stave off a second year of declining profits. In a sluggish economy, still heavily dependent on the fiekle world oil market, bad debts are sapping earnings at Omani companies and that in turn means bank loans are turning sour.

Loan "The need to build loan provisions is likely to continue for the time being," said John Wright. general manager and chief executive officer at Oman Inter-

That has refocused attention on long-standing merger plans which could see Bank of Oman, Bahrain and Kuwait (BOBK) join forces with another medium-sized local bank to form the second biggest group in the Gulf state.

But with the Sultanate's crude oil selling at only a little over $15 per barrel, few hankers believe there is any slack in the government's austerity programme to unleash a new wave of spending before the start of 1989 at the earliest.

nearly all the new jobs last month were in service industries, which added 201,000 workers.

Not for the first time, the survey of husiness payrolls painted a much different picture than the Lahour Department's com-panion bousehold survey, which is used to calculate the unemployment rate.

WASHINGTON, June 3, (AP): Orders to US factories rose a strong t.2 per cent in April, the second substantial monthly increase in a row, the govern-ment said on Wednesday.

Most economists had been forecasting more modest growth in new orders of 0.5 per cent and the bigger-than-expected num-ber likely will do little to alleviate fears that strong demand, particularly for exports, will trigger greater inflation.

The Commerce Department said that orders for durable and non-durable goods rose to a seasonally adjusted $218.7 billion in April.

The advance followed a 1.6 per cent increase in March, no change in February and a modest 0.6 per cent decline in January. The strength in April came in

ACRE OIL WAS UP 17P TO 217 AFTER A HIGH OF 221 AFTER BRITISH GAS MADE A 370 MLN STG AGREED OFFER FOR THE COMPANY. BRITISH GAS WAS 2P FIRMER AT 173 AND LATER SAID IT HAD OVER 50 PCT OF ACRE. GLYNWED MADE A 102 MLN STG AGREED BID FOR AMARI, UP 34P TO 247. THE FTSE 100 SHARE INDEX WAS UP 8.7 POINTS TO 1,819 AT 1431 GHT, FINDING FRESH DEMAND AS THE NEW TRADING ACCOUNT GOT UNDER WAY. THE INDEX HAD EARLIER TODAT TOUCHED A HIGH OF 1,822 AFTER THE EARLY BID NEWS BROUGHT IN BUYERS, DEALERS SAID.

A NEAR ELEVEN DLR JUMP IN THE BULLION PRICE TO AN AFTERNOON FIXING OF 464.70 DLRS AN OUNCE FROM YESTERDAY'S CLOSE TRIGGERED DOUBLE FIGURE GAINS AMONG THE GOLD-RELATED ISSUES. CONSGOLD JUMPED 30P TO 1,034, RTZ 16P TO 434 AND LONHRO 12P TO 300. CONCERN THAT INFLATION MIGHT BEGIN TO ACCELERATE ANIO RISING COMMODITY PRICES HAD FUELLED THE RISE IN GOLD BULLION. GOLD

PRODUCERS SAW VAAL REEFS RISE 6-1/4 OLRS TO 92-1/2 OLRS. SOME 11.5 MLN SHARES IN LONHRO HAD CHANGED HANDS BY THE LATE AFTERNOON WITH VOLUME SWELLED BY RUMOURS RTZ MIGHT BIO FOR IT. ANALYSTS SAID THEY KNEW OF THE RUMOURS BUT WERE HIGHLY SCEPTICAL ABOUT A BID APPROACH FROM RTZ.

London Gold

LONDON, JUNE 3, REUTER - GOLD BULLION HAD BEGUN TO SETTLE COUNTIN A HEW MIGHER TRADING RANGE BY THE CLOSE WHEN IT STOOD AT 464.50.465.00 DLRS AN OUNCE, DEALERS SAID.

THE CLOSE WAS LITTLE CHANGED FROM THE AFTERNOON FIX OF 464.70 OR MORNING SETTING OF 464.85, BUT WAS SHARPLY ABOVE THURSDAT'S CLOSE OF 453.75/454.25.

AN OVERNIGHT SURGE STARTED BY U.S. SILVER TRADERS AND CARRIED INTO GOLD SAW THE METAL PEAK AROUND 467 DLRS OUTSIDE EUROPEAN TRADING HOURS. A BOUT OF PROFIT-TAKING JUST BEFORE LONDON OPENED LED TO AN INITIAL RANGE OF 462.20/462.70 BUT GOLD SOON BEGAN TO MOVE NIGHER AGAIN AMID INFLATION FEARS.

London Money Market

LONDON, JUNE 3, REUTER - MONEY MARKET INTEREST RATES EDGED DOWN FROM THE HIGHS TOWARD THE CLOSE AS BRITISH AUTHORITIES WITHSTOOD MARKET PRESSURE FOR ANOTHER 1/2 POINT RISE IN BASE RATES AND STERLING NELD STEADT AROUND 3.10 MARKS, DEALERS SAID. THE KEY THREE MONTH STERLING INTERBANK RATE HAD BEEN PUSHED UP 5/16 POINT TO NINE 8-7/8 PCT AT MIDDAT BUT GRADUALLY DRIFTED DOWN TO 8-7/8 3/4 WHEN THE RATE HIKE FAILED TO APPEAR. HOWEVER, RATES STILL DISCOUNT AT LEAST A FURTHER 1/2 POINT RISE AND WHILE OFALERS WERE PREDICTING A RESUMPTION OF THE UPWARD PRESSURE NEXT WEEK, THEY RECOGNISED IT WOULD BE STERLING'S PERFORMANCE THAT WOULD DECIDE THE MATTER.

Wall Street Market Report

New York, June 3. Reuter — Firming bond prices in late morning helped stocks recoup some of their earlier losses to stand marginally higher al midday. Traders said the market had drifted within e narrow range after nonfarm payrolls came in at the lower end of most forecasts and buoyed stocks...

Traders also noted that the upward revision in the April no nferm payrolls rise to 249,000 from a previously reported 174,000 may have offset the lower May number. The Dow was up three at 2056, after alternatively rising and falling. Gainers led decliners narrowly. Some profit-taking after the week's two-day 108 point gain dampened advances,

Tokyo Stock Market Report

TOKYO STOCKS CLOSE LOVER IN ACTIVE TRADE TOKYO, JUNE 3, RELITER - SHARE PRICES CLOSED LOWER IN ACTIVE TRADE AS MOST INSTITUTIONS, CONCERNED OVER WALL STREET'S DIRECTION, STUCK TO THE SIDELINES, BROKERS SAID. "THERE'S NOT MUCH INTEREST IN MAIN-LINE ISSUES, BUT THERE IS LOTS OF INTEREST IN LOW-PRICED SPECULATIVE STOCKS (AMONG INDIVIDUALS)," SAID BITR TOKYO BROKER MICHAEL CUTBILL. THE HIKKEI INDEX DROPPED 47.82 POINTS, OR O. 17 PCT, TO 27,821.54, AFTER GAINING 165.45 ON THURSDAY TO A RECORD CLOSING 27,869.36.

DECLINES OUTNUMBERED ADVANCES BY A SLIGHT MARGIN IN HEAVY VOLUME OF 2.0 BILLION SHARES AGAINST 1.9 BILLION ON THURSDAY.

BROKERAGES, COMMUNICATIONS, ELECTRICAL, RAILWAY/BUS, RETAIL, PRECISION AND MACHINERT SHARES FELL.

CREDIT/LEASE, PHARMACEUTICAL, ELECTRIC POWER, GAS, OIL. SHIPPING, CONSTRUCTION, MIHING AND PULP/PAPER ISSUES FIRMED. MOST INSTITUTIONS WERE BIDELINED, AWAITING WALL STREET'S REACTION TO THE 1230 GHT RELEASE OF U.S. MAT EMPLOYMENT DATA, BROKERS SAID.

LOW UMEMPLOYMENT COULD MEAN AN OVERHEATED ECONOMY, AND THIS HIGHT LEAD TO NIGHER INTEREST RATES AND LOWER STOCK PRICES. RELATED UNCERTAINTY OVER THE YEN'S IMMEDIATE DIRECTION IS ANOTHER DISINCENTIVE TO INSTITUTIONS, THEY SAID.

BUT INDIVIDUAL INVESTORS, LESS ATTUNED TO MARKET FORCES, WERE ARDENTLY COURTED BY BROKERS EAGER TO INVEST THEIR MID-YEAR BONUSES.

"IT'S THE SEASON FOR MOVEMENTS OF MONEY. BROKERS WANT A PIECE OF THE ACTION," SAID WAKO SECURITIES BROKER TADAAKT

KD deposit rates tumble

KUWAITI dinar deposit rates tumbled on Thursday as banks sold dollars, boosting dinar liquidity.

The rates climbed on Wednesday as banks scrambled to cover a KD100 million issue of threemonth treasury bills, but had already begun to fall back late in the day.

Thursday's overnight business plunged to two per cent from ten per cent on Wednesday while tomorrow-next fell to four per cent offers from 5-1/2 per cent business, dealers said.

Spot-next offers fell to three per cent from five per cent early in the day, while the one week dealt at 5-1/4 per cent from Wednesday's six. five per cent levels.

The one-month maturity slipped to six, 5-3/4 per cent from opening levels of 6-1/4, six per cent while twn and three-month funds were quoted at 6-5/16, 1/16 per cent after dealing at 6-1/4 per

The Central Bank dinar exchange rate eased to 0.27602/ 12 to the dollar from Wednesday's 0.27570/80, while commer-cial banks quoted spot rates of around 0.27608/15.

Meanwhile, in Bahrain, Saudi riyal interbank deposits traded barely changed in a dull Thursday market, with demand for short-dated funds keeping the broader market relatively firm.

Dealers reported spot-next trading as bigh as 7-1/4, seven per cent after quotes of five, 4-1/2 on Wednesday, with banks in Saudi Arabia actively seeking funds.

That demand may have prevented longer-dated rival maturitles from easing on the back of a lower opening to Eurodollar deposit rates in Ецгоре.

Traders said US interest rates seem to have developed a softer tone following economie data suggesting the American economy is not growing as quickly as forecast.

In fixed-dated maturities, one-month funds were indicated harely changed at 7-1/4, 1/8 per cent, with some rates 1/16 point lower than Wednesday. But three-months was unchanged at 7-9/16, 7/16 and six months beld at 7-13/16, 11/16.

British Gas bids for Acre Oil

LONDON, June 3, (Reuter): British Gas Plc announced a dly takeover bid today for Acre Oil Plc, Britain's third-largest independent oil explorer and producer.

British Gas, which dominates domestic and industrial gas supply in Britain, said in a statement it now controlled 50.3 per cent of the company's issued share

The statement said the takeover, recommended by the Acre board, was an important step in British Gas's expansion of operations in Britain and offshore in the North Sea.

A British Gas spokesman said Acre would provide oil production facilities to complement its gas extraction.

Acre said two-thirds of its business was in oil and one third in gas with one gas and four oil platforms operating in the North Sea.

We're also exploring several other fields that could become very productive in the next four or five years,"an Acre spokes-

"The British Gas offer was a good one. We didn't think there was any more money out there than that," he added.

The takeover came just months after the Scottish-based oil exploration and production company Britoil Plc was taken over by British Petroleum Ple following a bitter battle for control. Britoil announced today it would cease trading under its name from June 14.

Inflation talk sends gold, silver higher

LONDON, June 3, (Reuter): Gold and silver prices rose to their highest in several months today because of concern about inflation in the United States. bullion dealers said.

Gold touched $466 an ounce. its highest since late January. Silver soared to a six-month high Bullion operators judge tbat, if inflation does take hold, precious metals will again be in traditional demand as a safe store of wealth even as the value of other investments slips.

Tension

Current prices are still way below all-time peaks. Gold reached $850 in January 1980 during tension over the fate of US hostages held in Iran and in a time of high inflation after the 1979 oil price "shock."

There is a risk that core inflation is rising." said a US analyst, Charles Lieberman of manufacturers Hanover Securities Corp.

Graham Birch, a bullion expert at Kleinwort Grieveson in London, said silver took off first and dragged gold along.

Silver was fixed at midday in London at $7.22 an ounce, the first setting above $7 since November 30.

"There is a lot of silver about and although it might go up further in the sbort-term it will evenlually fall back down again to below $7," Birch said.

Neil Buxton of broker Shearson Lehman Hutton also said silver would probably eventually slip back. The outlook for gold may be more promising as it seems to bave established a new higher trading range.

Meanwhile the dollar weakened slightly and world stock markets were mixed after US investors bad yesterday cashed in some of their gains from an earlier rally on Wall Street.

"It was normal profit-taking -nota surprise," said John Burnett, a trader at Donaldson Lufkin and Jenrette in New York after the Dow Jones Industrial Average ended yesterday 12 points down at 2,052.45.

Soared The Dow had soared 108 points in the previous twn sessions as fears of higher inflation and a possible rise in US interest rates to damp it down had receded somewhat.

But takeover activity belped London's FTSE index of 100 blue chips up seven points to around 1,817 by Europe's late morning. The new surge in gold and other precious metals was driven by gains in soybean futures prices in Chicago on Thursday.

Eroded

These rallied because of dry weather in the US Midwest farm belt and market talk the Soviet Union bought a large amount of South American soyabean meal. The surge in grain prices ignited inflation fears in the New York metals market.

Operators judge that, if infla-tion does take hold, precious metals will be in demand again as a safe store of wealth even as the value of other investments is eroded.

Among currencies, new selling hit the pound sterling and took it below 3.10 West German marks and $1.80. The dollar was easier against Japan's currency, worth around 125.50 yen, It was fetching just above 1.72 marks.

In Tokyo, sbare prices dropped in active trading on the Tokyo Stock Exchange as institutional investors sat on the fence awaiting US employment figures, brokers said. The Nikkei index fell 47.82 main-line issues, but there is lots of interests in low-priced speculative stocks (among individuals)," said Bank of Tokyo-touche remnant broker Michael Cutbill. The dollar in Tokyo was steady against the yen but sligh-tly firmer against the West German mark in quiet trading. It closed at 126.11 yen and 1.7225/ 30 marks against 126.15/20 and 1.7205/10 in New York.

Credit-lease, pbarmaceutical, electric power, gas, oil, shipping, construction, mining and pulppaper issues firmed.

Most institutions sat out the session in anticipation of Wall Street's reaction to the release of US May employment figures, brokers said.

Low unemployment could mean an overheated economy, and lead to higher interest rates and lower stock prices. Related uncertainty over the yen's immediate direction was another disincentive to institutions, hrokers said. In the late Asian afternoon, gold was trading at about $462.50 per ounce, against New York's strong closing levels of 466.30/80 yesterday.

Sydney's stock excbange closed sharply higher today 15.7 points at 1579.1.

Strenghth

Brokers said the market's strength mainly lay in the resour-ces sector following a surge of nearly $10 in international gold bullion prices yesterday. "The market's performance today was unquestionably on the back of the rise in gold prices," one Sydney dealer said. "But it hasn't performed quite as stron-

ROME, June 3, (Reuter): The United Nations World Food Programme (WFP) said today it will spend more than $1.8 billion to relieve food shortages and promote economic development in Africa under a five-year plan adopted in 1986. The WFP released the funding figure for its special "Plan of action for Africa" in a statement following a meeting of its governing body. Osei Owusu, a WFP policy analyst, said it was the first time the group has detailed funding for the five-year Africa aid programme. Owusu said between $800 and 900 million had already been committed to projects, but said no estimate was available on bow much had already been spent. According to the plan, by 1990 the programme will have spent more than $550 million to provide relief food in sub-Saharan countries, primarily Ethiopia, Sudan, Mozambique and Malawi. "In the past, Ethiopia had received the largest relief, but Sudan will receive greater and greater attention in the future," Owusu told Reuters.

Egypt's Islamic investment firms face new controls

CAIRO, June 3, (Reuter): Government moves to control Egypt's Islamic investment firms could threaten the savings of millions of small investors, Cairo bankers said yesterday.

The bankers fear that draft legislation, which will give companies a year to issue investment deeds to depositors, may lead to a run that could bring the system tumbling down.

Controversy over the Islamic investment companies, which together control billions of dollars of savings, has already sent tremors through Egypt's financial markets.

New jaw President Hosni Mubarak discussed the new laws with top advisers on Wednesday. The draft law pledges that the state will not interfere with the daily running of the companies, Cairo newspapers said yesterday.

Owners of the companies believe fixed interest is forbidden according to Islam. They offer a risk-sharing scheme instead, with depositors facing losses as well as profits. The firms bave paid over 20

Mubarak and Prime Minister Atef Sedki bave told reporters the new bill was not bostile to Islamic firms, but regulated them in a way similar to banks and insurance firms. Replace The proposed investment deeds would replace receipts now taken by depositors, although savers would still get monthly returns. The deeds would not give depositors authority in management decisions but would give them priority over company owners in recovering funds, Company dealings would come under the supervision of an official regulatory commission, the Capital Markets Authority.

Shops close after Indonesia bans sale of pirated tapes

JAKARTA, June 3, (Reuter): Hundreds of Jakarta's tape shops closed yesterday and those left open carried only a few lonely-looking tapes of Chinese. Japanese and Indonesian music following a government ban on pirated Western cassettes.

Indonesia and the European Economic Community signed a copyright pact on sound recording which came into effect on June I. Under the pact, Indonesia is no longer allowed to produce or sell bootleg music cassettes.

The Indonesian government will severely punish local producers and sellers who violate the pact. Under the new law, producers of pirated tapes could face seven years in prison or a fine of 60,000 dollars, while salesmen may be jailed for five years or fined $30,000.

Many shopowners, fearing the government's wrath, put up signs saying: "Closed, cassette stock has been returned." "We'll probably close for a month and we'll wait for further developments," commented one

Popular choices at the 35th National Film Awards

Well-deserved wins for quality films

EVERY year, the National Film Awards become a target of some controversy or the other. But this year, when they enter their 35th year, the awards seem to have satisfied almost everyhody, except some inevitable miss-outs and some aggrieved parties.

The awards were given away last month by the President of India, at a glittering function at Siri Fort film complex in Delhi. The happy occasion was tinged with a sharp note of sadness because of Raj Kapoor's sickness. Though he had just been discharged from a Bombay hospital after a bout of asthma etc, Raj hraved the dry heat of Delhi to receive the hig honour.

But his health could not bear the strain. As his name was to be called the last among the winners, he was feeling very weak and restless. When the name was announced be could not go up on the stage. In a way he was doubly honoured, as the President R. Venkatraman along with Information Minister H.K.L. Bhagat and secretary Gnpi Arnra came down from the stage and gave him the award. Raj could barely stand up. He collapsed in the chair and was given an oxygen mask. Soon after, he was removed to hospital on a stretcher, which led to his long lingering sickness. How we wish he had not gone to the

The other winners were also present in full strength. Since most of them were deserving ones; they got a lot of applause from the select gathering of the eream of society. Young Assamese director Jahnu President's Gold Medal, for his

"Halodhia Choraye Baodhan Khai," declared as the best film of 1987. Two weeks earlier, when the awards had been announced, there was great rejoicing in Assam and its capital Gauhati. The film maker was received like a hero, as this is the first time an Assamese film won the top

There were also murmurs by some that it was a political award, as the ruling party wanted to please the turbulent province, now under the opposition rule. It was also said Gautam Ghosh's "Mahayatra" deserved the award. But the Assamese film also has a lot of rooted realism and pure strength of characters. The director himself calls it a political film, on how an a pawn on the chess-board.

It was about a farmer whose small paddy field is legally claimed by a landlord. When be enters into a court case, the burden of expenses and bribes ruin his family. Luckily, the landlord is standing for the Assembly election and the opposition uses the farmer's case to spoil his chances. So the corrupt Collector arranges for the farmer to get back his land. He scores a temporary triumph. But then, the landlord will soon win the election and to Archana for another Tamil film "Veedu." Thilakan was the best supporting actor in the Malayalam "Hrithubhedam" and Surekha Sikri got the same for "Tamas." The best child actor was Manjunath in the Malgudi Days serial "Swamy."

Among other popular winners, Asha Bhonsle was named the

So, when friend and Pakistan film star, Mohammad Ali who had come to India to shoot for Manoj Kumar's Clerk invited him to Pakistan, Rajendra Kumar gladly agreed. And so began the magical journey into the past.

The craze to enter the Guinness Book of World Records is so strong that people are attempting crazy feats. One official of Overseas Communication Service, Madhusudan Bhide sat down to sing film songs at a stretch, totalling up to one hundred, from morning to night at a hall in Bombay. We hope someone does not belt out 120 songs now.

It is a victory of head over heart. And Ramesh Sippy indeed has a tough head inherited from his father G.P. Sippy. That's why he has kept his beloved Kiran Juneja away from all his home productions, like "Zameen" and "Bhrashtaehar." But he has quietly included her in the outside film, he is directing, namely "Akeyla" for Mushir and Riaz. There too she is cast not opposite Amitahh hut Aditya. The film already has Amit, Amrita Singh, Jackie Shroff, Meenakshi. So we can imagine what shall be left for poor girl Kiran.

Farha's younger sister Tabbu after going through ail kinds of private hells has at last landed a decent role in a decent (so-called) set-up. It is Shekhar Kapoor's "Dushmani" where Sunny will be her hero. But knowing Shekhar's slow and royal ways of working, Tahhu may end up looking like Farha's elder sister when the film is released.

With so much hoo-haa for the TV serial "Ramayan," two adverse incidents came like a breath of fresh air. In Gujarat and some other places, children inspired by Rama-Ravana war, made their own bows and arrows and staged mock batties. Result? Several kids got hlinded or severely injured their eyes. At another place, eye specialists doing operations

At that time he was in the pink of health and did not know that he would come again for the same award, hut in such a bad condition.

At the end of "Qayamat Se Qayamat Tak," the new love pair Aamir Khan and Juhi Chawla are shown dying in the style of Romeo and Juliet. The girl is shot and the boy stabs himself. But this ending was not liked hy the audience and the film showed a drop in collec-

IOC chief willing to visit North Korea

SEOUL, June 3, (Reuter): Olympič chief Juan Antonio Samaranch said yesterday he was prepared to visit Pyongyang in a ast ditch attempt to persuade North Korea to compete in the Seoul Games this September.

At an airport news conference which followed a four-day visit to Seoul, the International Olympic Committee (IOC) president set conditions for Pyongyang which virtually ruled out any chance of North Korean participation.

The North has refused to send any athletes to Seoul because the IOC has refused its demand to be co-host. Samaranch's statement that he was willing to visit Pyongyang followed meetings with key South Korcan opposition politicians and dissident leaders yesterday. During Samaranch's break-fast meeting with opposition leaders some 100 radical students demonstrated outside his Seoul hotel demanding that the IOC should allow Pyongyang to share the Olympics. Almost 70 students were arrested when riot police broke up the demonstra-

Last week, after violent protests in Seoul demanding a jointly-staged Olympics, the IOC reiterated its position that Pyongyang's demand ran counter to the Olympic charter.

Samaranch himself presided over four rounds of talks between North and South Korea in 1986 and 1987 in a fruitless attempt to reach a compromise. Sources close to the Seoul

Olympic Organising Committee ruled out the possibility that any visit hy Samaranch to Pyongyang would result in a sharing arrangement since it was now logistically impossible. Samaranch emphasised at his airport news conference that any new deal with Pyongyang would depend on North Korea opening its horder to all the 'Olympic family, including more than 8,000 foreign journalists accredited to the games. Since the border between the divided countries is one of the most tense and heavily-guarded in the world, the chances of Pyongyang acceding to this demand were considered by Olympic sources and political analysts to be extremely remote. The fact that Samaranch has continued to keep the door open for North Korean participation is seen more as a sop to South Korean opposition politicians and dissidents than as a serious indication that co-hosting is pos-

But if Pyongyang does indeed invite Samaranch for talks it could indicate a major change of heart by the communist authorities there.

BONN, June 3, (Reuter): When English referee Keith Hackett signals the start of the opening match between West Germany and Italy in Duesseldorf on the evening of June 10, the curtain will rise on the world's most elaborate, expensive and important soccer tournament outside the World Cup.

KHALED BAKHIT of Dubai took a ten second victory over Kuwait's Mishal Al Jarallah in esterday's second hi-annual Kuwait Offshore Powerboat Race. The pair sped home to the chequered flag, a good ooe and a half hours before any other boat arrived.

As the start was signalled. Bakhit, Jarallah, and Salem Mohammed of Dubai, in the largest competing boat, took an immediate lead, leaving the racers to fall ioto three distinct groups. By the time they reached turning point I, near Abu Halifa, the gap between the groups was lengthening con-siderably.

"A racer must use his mind. He has to know what he's doing, when to use his speed and when to reduce it."

Cecil tipped to win Epsom Oaks EPSOM, England, June 3, (Reuter): Champion race-horse trainer Henry Cecil bas had a poor classic season so far but the filly Diminuendo looks likely to change his luck in the Epsom Oaks tomorrow. Cecil did not even have a runner from his 66-strong team of three-year-olds in the two colts classics, the 2,000 Guineas and the Derby, and in the 1,000 Guineas Diminuendo failed to cope with the French hot-shot Ravinella, finishing third.

But over tomorrow's 12
furlongs in the 12-runner field there is some confidence that Sheikh Mobammed's runner can get Cecil off the classic mark for the year.

To do so Diminuendo, who will be ridden by champion jockey Steve Cauthen, will need to find a little extra to beat her main rival Dabaweyaa, the mount of Walter Swinhurn. The pair finished one and a
